New York, NY

December, 2012

The Board of Directors of the H.W. Wilson Foundation has announced continuation of its support of education in library and information science with a new round of scholarship grants.

Since 1957, H.W. Wilson has supported U.S. Canadian library and information science schools accredited by the American Library Association. This is the second year of a 4 year program which will send $580,000 to assist qualified students to the professions in the US and Canada.

The following program will each receive a check for $10,000 for 2013:

Emporia State University	University de Montreal
Florida State University	University of Alabama
Indiana University	University of California, Los Angeles
Louisiana State University	University of Denver
Queens College, City University of New York	University of Missouri-Columbia
Rutgers University	University of North Carolina at Greensboro
Syracuse University	University of Wisconsin-Madison
Texas Women's University	Valdosta State University

Each program may distribute its grant in accordance with its own scholarship criteria as well as divide the total sum to accommodate its particular needs. Any program which receives accreditation in any year will receive a grant the year following accreditation.
